PLAYING RULES
• The tournament is a nine-hole individual event.
• Each player will “tee-off”. S/he will then throw from this spot. This procedure continues until s/he lands the disc in the target.

General Playing Rules
• Disc golf is played like regular golf with a Frisbee, or “disc” used instead of a golf ball. The target is a basket that is situated at the end of each hole. Your “score” for a hole is determined by the number of disc throws needed to land in the basket.
• To tee off, the player throws from a designated tee box area. When throwing, your feet must be at or behind the spot where the disc landed on the previous stroke. Throwing order is determined by who is farthest from the hole, and tee-off order begins with those who had the fewest strokes on the previous hole.
• If the disc lands outside the designated course (on roads, in a tree, etc.), then a one stroke penalty is assessed and the disc is thrown from the spot it went out of bounds. When within a ten meter radius of the hole, the player cannot dive towards the hole in their throwing motion so as to gain an advantage. To complete a hole, the disc must lie inside the designated basket.
• The winner is the individual who completes the entirety of the disc golf course in the fewest number of strokes. In case of a tie-breaker, individuals will begin extra holes beginning at the first hole. Play will continue until one player scores lower on a given hole.

All rules not specifically covered in this document will be enforced as PDGA Disc Golf Rules.
All rules are subject to change by the Director of Intramural Sports.
